award at the
CAREERONE - RCSA Recruitment Awards for Excellence 2006

Careerlink

RECRUITMENT Firm winner Careerlink has held a reputation as one of Adelaide's premier, privately owned recruitment practices for more than 15 years.

Under managing director Angela Giacomis, the firm has an impressive client list which includes blue-chip companies and iconic brands, many of which have remained loyal since Careerlink opened for business in 1991.

Ms Giacomis says she has grown her practice with a philosophy of "customer first".

"As a team we believe in building strong relationships and providing quality service," she says. "The staff at Careerlink have a genuine passion for matching candidate competency to customer culture. I'm proud of the reputation we have for doing that well."

Careerlink specialises in the placement of customer service, sales, office support and administration roles from entry to middle-management level.

The firm is known for its service to Adelaide's contact-centre industry, often requiring recruitment of high numbers of quality staff at one time.

"We have a great relationship with many of South Australia's contact centres," Ms Giacomis says.

"The volume requirements mean that thousands of applications can be received in a few days and we have developed robust processes to enable us to manage this successfully. It's fast paced, exciting and very rewarding."

The Torrensville-based organisation provides a diverse range of human-resource solutions, including the placement of temporary, permanent and contract staff to private and government entities throughout SA.

Careerlink Training and Recruitment Services is also a registered training organisation designing and delivering in-house and public courses in a range of areas, including customer service, leadership and team building.
